

Incorrect formatting can be an expensive problem, but myfujifilm.com's state-of-the-art pre-flight program can save you time and money. With our advanced stand-alone solution your clients can pre-flight before uploading the file, at a time convenient to them.

Whether your clients are using QuarkXPress, Photoshop, CorelDRAW or any of a wide variety of file types, pre-flight will scan them and warn of over 150 potential problems, easily and quickly. Pre-flight can even investigate native document files without the application that created them and assure their validity by checking all the linked graphics files, fonts, and colors.

catch costly errors

And your clients can pre-flight without uploading. You set your requirements and the specifications of your equipment, save the settings and load them into your clients' copy of myfujifilm.com's pre-flight program. Pre-flight analyzes your clients' files and checks them against your specifications.

By checking the pre-defined options on a pull-down menu you can easily see whether you or your client will make any changes that are required. Or you can create customized pre-flight templates to meet your clients' requirements. That kind of improved workflow means lower costs and increased productivity.

HERE'S HOW:

- You can work collaboratively on-line and at the same time.
- You can transfer files quickly and easily at the push of a button.
- All the information you need for a job is in one place, so it is easy to find, search, modify, and even move to another job.
- You have a permanent event history of every job, including on-line annotations, approvals and client preferences.
- At a glance you can see the status of all jobs you are working on, track them, search for them, and retrieve them.

Approvals on-line

Here are more advantages that can benefit your workflow and save you time:

Pre-flighting: Pre-flight jobs before uploading them. You can easily customize the pre-flight to meet your client's specifications and preferences.

Collaborative Soft Proofs: With on-line proofing, all participants see the same image. They have full annotation tools and all can make changes. The changes automatically appear on everyone's screen at the same time or can be viewed later. You have a written record of what changes were made and who approved the proof.

Non-collaborative Soft Proofs: Your clients are notified by e-mail that the image is available. Changes they make are automatically displayed to the others when they sign on. At the end you have a written record and approval.

Hard Proofs: Can be sent directly to your client for remote output or they can be posted on myfujifilm.com for your client to download.

Smart, easy to use and fast, Job Management is a workflow solution that will increase your company's productivity.
